NEWARK — Old time residents of New Jersey are mourning the passing of Theodore (Ted) Valentine, native of Irvington who passed away in December in East Orange Veterans Hospital after a long illness. He was 60.

Ted as he was affectionally known by his thousands of friends had a colorful and hectic career. He was educated in the Newark schools, graduating from East Side High School. He attended Lincoln University. Upon leaving college he took up residence in Atlantic City. It was here in the play ground of America, Ted became known through out the nation for warm hospitality to visitors who came NEWARK — Newark-Essex CORE representatives met last week with Mayor Hugh Addonizio to make known to the city its deep dissatisfaction with the Police Department and, in particular, to formally register a complaint against the detective who shot and killed seventeen year old Walter Mathis on December 25, 1965.

Following the meeting at City Hall, Fred Means, chairman of the CORE chapter, said that "the Executive Board of CORE has voted to make the following demands of the Mayor as a result of another brutal abuse of police power. Our people have

U.S. Seeks To End Discrimination In All State Employment Offices

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced last week that a series of meetings with state employment officials aimed at erasing what is believed to be widespread racial discrimination in state employment service offices, will start this week.

The meetings will represent the first step in a program the department had set up to get states to eliminate voluntarily any discriminatory practices in their employment offices.

Labor Department officials emphasize that they will exhaust all means possible to get states to comply voluntarily, but that they will not hesitate to cut off Federal funds eventually from any states that do not comply.

The new attack on racial discrimination in the United States Employment Service is an outgrowth of nearly 150 complaints of racial discrimination filed by individuals and civil rights groups against state Employment service funds from seek to find work for the jobless.

The complaints have been filed under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. That law prohibits discrimination in Federal-aid programs and directs Government agencies to enforce that policy in the programs they administer. The United States Employment Service is financed by the Federal Gov-

N.A.A.C.P. Seeks More Funds To Fight Race Discrimination

NEW YORK — Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the N. A. A. C. P. announced last week in a report that would seek the amount of $2,000,000 this year to fight racial discrimination. This is a rise of $300,000 over the 1965 budget figure.

Greenberg whose office covers the Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., said last week that the task of civil rights lawyers in the South would become "increasingly difficult in 1966."

It was pointed out that the South was becoming more like the North in that it was now denying racial discrimination when it existed.

In the face of a denial in the South, Mr. Greenberg said, "the fact-finding job and task of proof are enormous." He explained that "in the North, state commissions against discrimination are on our side, lessening the burden. But in the South the state is against us."

The fund, according to Mr. Greenberg, is responsible for more than 95 per cent of the civil rights litigation in the South, apart from voting cases handling by the Department of Justice.

Mr. Greenberg said most of the 1966 money would be expended in the areas of employment, education, housing and health.

The report said the employment program would concentrate specifically on the Southern textile industry, the construction trades and banking and finance. It will play "special attention" to apprenticeship programs and segregated lines of seniority, the report said.

According to Mr. Greenberg, the fund has 175 school cases on its docket and will file new ones only if they "promise to make precedents."

In housing, the report noted that one of the fund's first anti-trust cases had resulted in the Trenton, N. J., real estate board admitting a Negro plaintiff.

Mr. Greenberg said the fund would also institute "wide scale" litigation to require commissioners to integrate their juries.

"We have filed several cases against justices of the peace in Mississippi and Alabama enjoining the from handling any cases at all because they are compensated on the basis of the amount of fines they collect," he said.

"This is a practice occurring elsewhere in the South and is an incentive to justices of the peace to convict innocent people who too frequently are Negroes incapable of obtaining adequate representation."

The Greenberg report said the fund had completed a "massive" survey of 2,700 rape cases that occurred in the South over the last 15 years.

"We think this will show," it declared, "that Negroes receive the death penalty when the victim is a white woman, although other defendants in rape cases rarely, if ever, are so punished."

The material in the survey will be processed by Professor Marvin Wolfgang of the University of Pennsylvania and a team of statisticians.

The results will be introduced into litigation in selected test cases, the report said.

"Hopefully," the report added, the survey finding will have two other effects: it may start a campaign against inequality in punishment and it may accelerate the nationwide trend against capital punishment."

first member of ethnic background to hold this great honor. The fact that this is singled out makes me feel in turn that we still have a long way to go here in this wonderful country of ours before discrimination in all its forms can be eliminated.

The newly elected Director continued, "I will reconstitute the leadership of our former Director and now our Finance chairman Albert Saldutti in pushing with all speed possible the erection and operation of a Community College in Essex County. If there is one crying need, it is the need of higher educational facilities and higher educational opportunities for all who have the ambition and the desire to avail themselves of its opportunities."

Matthews said further, "I will further dedicate myself to the completion of the county's building program—the new criminal courts building and the new county jail to replace the antiquated and tired institutions by which the services in this county are so sorely belabored. But in any case the partnership which we have established here today can and must do its part in bringing to all the citizens of this county the services upon which the growth and progress really depends.

Under the freeholder form of government, the board directs the operations and facilities for some 960,000 residents of Essex County.

Mr. Matthews was born on an Alabama farm, April 1917. He came to Philadelphia as an infant and at the age of seven his parents moved to Newark where he has since remained. At the age of 20 he became Newark's first Negro Democrat district leader and at 25 was elected the first Negro Ward chairman of the city and the state.

Elected To Board In 1961
He reached the level of county influence in 1961, when he was elected by a margin of 12,000 votes to fill an unexpired term on the Board of Freeholders.

He was elected to a full three year term in 1962 by a plurality of 20,000 votes. Welfare and other problems indigenous to the poor and deprived are high on Mr. Matthews' list of interests. He is a member of the county Welfare Board, a position he will retain, and co-author of the Essex County Narcotic Rehabilitation Program.

Studied By U. S.
The program, which utilizes work therapy as well as psychologists and counselors for rehabilitation of addicts, is under study for possible adoption by Federal penal institutions.

Mr. Matthews had been both to Watts, the scene of last summer's rioting in Los Angeles, and to Selma, Alabama, a landmark in the history of civil rights demonstrations.

Mr. Matthews insisted that the federal governments should shoulder a greater burden of the cost of welfare in Essex County, which accounts for one-third of the total welfare bill in New Jersey.

Compared with a county average of 8 per cent for the other 2,000 counties in the nation, Essex taxpayers pay 26 per cent of the total cost of welfare, he said.

UNITED COMMUNITY AREA BOARD 2 IN PERMANENT QUARTERS... "Operation We Care," one of Newark's neighborhood community action centers, has moved into permanent space at 416 Springfield Ave. The lease for 9000 square feet of space was signed December 1. Renovations began last week. Area Board 2 is one of nine boards planned in Newark to involve residents in community improvement programs, and is the first board to obtain permanent quarters.

Biggest Winner Is Rights Fight Is Ballot Box

CHICAGO — Biggest Negro news of 1965 according to published reports was made at the ballot box in a year-end roundup of the top 10 events for Negroes in 1965.

The exercise of new Negro political power in the North and a breakthrough in voting rights in the South made 1965 "the year of the vote" for U. S. Negroes.

"American Negroes for the first time in their history are standing on the actual threshold of a long-awaited birthright," says the Negro monthly magazine.

The top 10 events for Negroes in 1965, listed are:

1.—Emergence of Negro power at the polls. Ebony singles out the Cleveland mayoralty election, which Negro Carl Stokes lost by only 2,143 votes, and the role of the Negro vote in electing liberal Republican John Lindsay mayor of New York and moderate Mills E. Goodwin Jr. governor of Virginia.

2. Passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

3. The first White House Conference on Civil Rights, with more than 200 Negro and white leaders meeting with President Johnson to discuss jobs, administration of justice, voting, health and welfare, the family, housing and the community.

4. Gains in the field of government and politics. Ebony cites the appointment of Thurgood Marshall as solicitor general, the frequent mention of Robert C. Weaver as leading contender to head the new Department of Housing and Urban Development, the election of Constance Baker Motley as Manhattan borough president and the appointment of Mrs. Patricia Harris as ambassador to Luxembourg, making her the nation's first Negro woman ambassador.

5. Passage of President Johnson's aid to education bill, "including special provisions for culturally deprived areas."

6. Employment breakthroughs in every area, ranging from the War on Poverty to the opening up of airline jobs for Negro pilots.

7. The Roman Catholic church's appointment of the Very Rev. Harold R. Perry, a Negro, to the post of auxiliary bishop of New Orleans and the Methodist church's "surprisingly vigorous drive for integration" with "other Protestants following suit."

8. The Air Force's promotion of Benjamin O. Davis Jr. to lieutenant general (three stars) and a step to that of

U. S. Forces and of the United Nations in Korea.

9. In sports, big-league football's first Negro official, Burl A. Toler, and big-league baseball's naming of Negro Emmett Ashford to begin umpiring American League games next spring. On the playing fields, the accomplishments of such stars as Willie Mays, Mudcat Grant, Gale Sayers and Arthur Ashe.

10. In entertainment, a big breakthrough in TV with Bill Cosby on "I Spy" becoming the first Negro star in a "non-racial" role. In journalism, Carl Rowan became the nation's first Negro political analyst for a major news syndicate. In the arts, the appointment of another Negro opera star, soprano Grace Bumbry, who debuts with the Metropolitan Opera last year.

U. S. Education Chief To Press Integration

Harold Howe II, 47, appointed U. S. Commissioner of Education by President Johnson recently, pledged "vigorous" enforcement of Federal school desegregation laws. But he also urged the South to develop a spirit of co-operation that would remove much of the necessity for Federal coercion in the movement toward "much greater" school desegregation. Mr. Howe, superintendent of schools at Scarsdale, N. Y., from 1960 to 1964, until two weeks ago was executive director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina at Raleigh.

More children are hospitalized for birth defects than for all infectious diseases combined, according to The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

THE FAMILY THAT PRAYS TOGETHER STAYS TOGETHER

PRAYER, LIKE BREATHING, should be a continuous process in every well-ordered life. We should strive to make of our lives, one continuous prayer. One endless spiritual contact with the source of our spiritual strength and guidance.

WHEN THIS IS DONE, we become the instrument through which God manifests the miracle of daily re-creation.

DID YOU EVER REALIZE that we are sent here to do our work to the Glory of God.

EACH OF US HAVE OUR WORK TO DO. How well we do it determines the reward that our Heavenly Father will bestow upon us, and the greatest reward of all the words that will greet us when we appear in his presence. Then He will say to those of us who have fulfilled our duties, "Well done, my good and faithful servant."

HE IS WITH US ALWAYS WE SHOULD BE WITH HIM ALWAYS

PRAYER BLESSINGS Blessed is the man that hears me, watching daily at my gates, waiting at the posts of my doors.

— Proverbs 8:34

Be not rash with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be hasty to utter any thing before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth; therefore let thy words be few.

Dear Doc' Wilson — ATLANTA I am on of your subscribers and I do enjoy reading your column. I would like to have some of that Graveyard Dust, and a Blessing with it, also some of that Graveyard Dirt, with all of the 7 strengths that create a giant. I want to see those funny things happen to this ex-boy friend of mine. I was very nice to him while I was working. Now I am sick and he walked out on me. I will sprinkle that graveyard dirt all around his house, in his bed, and even in his and her clothes. Is the Dirt really genuine, Doc?

ANSWER: If you don't think our Graveyard Dirt is genuine, I'll send you the body along with it.

Dear Doc' Wilson — BOSTON Menshuns me because I have so much hair on my body. Hair on my legs, very thin hair on my face, and lots of hair on and under my arms. Good hair tho, Doc. -- I am very sensitive about it. Men seem to think I am one of them. What shall I do? Will you rid me of it.

ANSWER:

Whats wrong with the boys in Boston. Maybe they're eating too many beans. Down my way I'm speaking of Georgia, Florida and Alabama, a chick in possession of that much hair couldn't stay single over night, especially if its that straight Indian hair. Get an electric razor and cut off what you don't want, but don't let your wants go too far. After all, you know what they say about women with all that hair -- or haven't you heard.

Dear Doc' Wilson — WEST VIRGINIA

That Black Gold is glorious, and your new Graveyard Dust is equally magnificent. I feel shame to be burning these fine incenses in a pan. Do you carry those beautiful brass incense burners. I have searched for one out here but they don't have nothing brass but cuspidors.

ANSWER:

We don't handle burners, but I can get you and anyone else all the burners you need. They are beautiful and inexpensive. Makes your incense smell better.

Dear Doc' Wilson — AUGUSTA I am 20 years of age. I am writing asking you to please help me. I am unable to pay for your help right now. I need money to pay my hospital bills, and my poor baby's insurance. My husband is not making over $20 a week and food alone eats that up. Help me find a good night job that pays very good and help my husband get a raise in pay. Can you send me the number that will fall Saturday January 1st. My mother and her husband are separated, she has 11 children, will you help her. Will you keep the police off my husbands back. Please Doc', do these few simple things for me.

ANSWER:

Few Simple Things. -- You've got more nerve than Dillinger but I'm going to help you. I won't take the law off of your husbands back because maybe that's the only reason why he's staying home. You are able-bodied so get out and find yourself a job. If your husband knows he deserves a raise and he's too "chicken" to ask Mr. Charlie for it, I don't blame Charlie for not giving it up. I will help you and your mother financially and that's all. "The Lord helps them who help themselves." All you want is for "them" to work for you. At least your mother did work for herself and she has 11 children to prove it.

... Vanderbilt in our opinion is the top major college basketball team with Clyde Lee a sure shot All-American... The New York Knicks suffer from the TV jinx they've yet to win in their televised games... Weequahic High School's cagers could be the best schoolboy quintet in the Garden State. The orange clad basketballers have two potentially great players in Larry Bemby and Dana Lewis.

Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers, Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers and Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals are the three best balanced players in the National Basketball Association. Currently Nate Thurmond of the San Francisco Warriors is the top rebounder, his team mate Guy Rogers is the best playmaker, Al Attles, the former Weequahic High School flash leads in percentage scoring, Attles' fine play has heaped the Golden Gate team aplenty... Congratulations are in order to Big Bill Russell, the Boston Celtics defensive titan on being the first player in the National Basketball Association to corral 16,000 rebounds. Russell continues to be the sparkplug of the Celtics as they battle their way to another NBA diadem.

PASSES AND DRIBBLES:

Jimmy Walker, the brilliant backcourt man of the classy Providence College quintet is a carbon copy of Bill Bradley, the former Princeton University All-American. Walker does everything well on the court and always seems to take charge when things look black for the Friars... We feel that Johnny Austin, Boston College's All-American candidate pays too much attention to his press clippings and pays too much attention to the fans. Potentially he's a terrific shot and dribbler... Cazzie Russell, Michigan's All-American is getting no help from his mates hence the Wolverines have lost games they should have won.

JUST BUZZIN' ROUND: Frank Gilliam, former University of Iowa end has become the first Colored American assistant coach in the Big Ten. He'll help head coach Ray Nagel at his alma mater... National Football League teams are already mapping defensive patterns to be utilized next season against Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bears' sensational rookie halfback.

Things guaranteed not to happen in 1966... A state legislature will pass a law requiring all horse players to check their money at the gate... a pro football quarterback will deck an onrushing tackle with a left hook and his team will dray a 15-yard penalty. Cassius Clay, the heavyweight champion will have nothing to say at press conferences... The New York League pennant. A pro basketball team will defeat another pro quintet 201- to 200... All of the bonus babies in professional baseball and football will be howling successes.

Social Security News

"There are people who still have not taken any steps to sign up for the Medicare program provided by the social security amendments of 1965," William J. Arnold, Social Security District Manager in Newark, said today.

"The Medicare program provides two types of protection," Arnold said:

1. Hospital insurance to help pay the cost of hospital and related care.
2. Medical insurance to help pay the cost of doctor's bills and other medical expenses.

"Those persons who have not taken the necessary steps fall into three groups," Arnold continued.

The first group consists of those persons age 65 and over who are on the social security or railroad retirement rolls. These persons automatically qualify for the hospital insurance protection. All should have received an enrollment card for the medical insurance protection. "It is very important to complete the card and return it to the Social Security Administration now before it is too late," Arnold said.

The second group consists of working individuals age 65 or over. There is no requirement that they retire in order to qualify for the two types of protection under the Medicare program. However, they must file an application now.

The last group is made up of all those people age 65 or over who have never worked under social security or have not worked long enough to receive cash benefits. These individuals can qualify for Medicare protection, but they must file an application.

Mr. Arnold said that those getting welfare will be contacted by the welfare people about signing up.

"All people falling into these groupings should get in touch with their Social Security Offices by phone, mail, or in person without delay," Arnold stated. The program goes into effect July 1, 1966. Those who delay may not be protected when the plan goes into effect.

The Newark Social Security Office is located at 1016 Broad Street and the telephone number is 645-3911.

Advances in surgery, antibiotics and other medical techniques are increasing by the thousands the number of children who reach school age despite serious birth defects, according to The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Chamberlain In Fadeway Hits 20,000

PHILADELPHIA — Wilt Chamberlain became the second player in the National Basketball Association to reach 20,000 points in his career as he scored 50 last Sunday in leading the 76ers to a 133-122 victory over New York.

Picking a day when he was on national television, Chamberlain boosted his total to 20,019 in 499 games over a seven-year period. The only other player to reach the 20,000 level was Bob Pettit, the former St. Louis star who retired last spring after collecting 20,880 points in 792 games over an 11-year span.

Chamberlain scored his 29,000th point after being fouled by New York's Willis Reed with 2:11 to play in the third quarter. He missed the first but made the second of two free throws. The game was stopped, and referee Willie Smith presented the ball to Chamberlain.

Two of the other top four NBA lifetime scorers watched Chamberlain perform. They were Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes, the third ranking scorer in history, with 19,249 points, and ex-Boston Celtic great Bob Cousy, fourth with 16,955. He was telecasting the game.

Philadelphia twice built 18-point leads in the first half only to have New York come back and finally deadlock the score at 105 with seven minutes left in the fourth period.

Chamberlain, however, hit with a fadeaway shot and although the Knicks cut the lead to a point, Philadelphia pulled away with Chamberlain and Chet Walker leading a late surge.

Walt Bellamy, with 36, was high for New York, while Hal Greer scored 34 for the 76ers.

Opportunity Offered In Negro Market

NEW YORK — A newsletter released last week by "Concepts," described the Negro market as a burgeoning segment of the economy, with purchasing power rapidly increasing to $300 billion mark. According to "Concepts," published by the financial and industrial relations firm of Irving L. Straus Associates, Inc., and circulated to more than 1,500 corporations and executives, the Negro market is not a matter of just throwing a switch. It calls for different and imaginative techniques.

"Because of the long-standing nature of our society," the newsletter said, "there are basic communication problems. Business and industry cannot hope to influence Negro thinking through well-oriented mass media and news bridges must be built. And, one of the most important of these is that of educating the Negro about your product with the Negro market."

Unless Negroes are convinced that they really care about us as human beings, as well as potential customers," the publication warns, "they are not likely to care about you or your products."

The newsletter, starting point for an institutional or product sales program is, of course, a study of the market. "Concepts" advises that the salesperson should be prepared material, but an interpretation of the market as it applies to a company's products is equally important.

The Negro viewpoint is the essential ingredient in this picture, it would be wise to include a Negro consultant in the research group.

Barring adverse publicity on hiring or other areas of discrimination, communicating with the Negro market through Negro-oriented media is the surest way to establish rapport. "Concepts" says that today, there are more than 700 Negro radio stations (vs. 30 decades ago) and more than 100 Negro newspapers.

Advertising (with Negro model) and publicity are only the beginning. The salesperson should consider the application of its product to the Negro market. It is not enough to have a product, it must be marketed properly.

The March Of Dimes

The TAPs will be trying to turn us on this month. We think that means a group of our energetic youngsters who make up the March of Dimes Teen Age Program (TAP) will be out on street corners and in shopping centers asking for contributions to support the fight against birth defects.

Even if our translation is off the mark, we hope you'll give generously for two excellent reasons.

One is that we believe young people who take their own leisure time to plan, organize, and carry out such worthwhile projects should be encouraged. They are laying the groundwork of good citizenship, in addition to showing a healthy concern for an important community problem.

The second reason is that problem itself — birth defects. We could cite several sets of tragic statistics to demonstrate the terrible toll these conditions exact. We think the mention of just two will bring the message home.

Nearly one in every 10 American families experiences the suffering caused by the birth of a seriously defective child. Every second child in many medical centers in this country today is there because of a birth defect.

The March of Dimes is attacking this situation vigorously through treatment centers, scientific research, professional and public education — including a newly launched program designed to raise the level of prenatal care.

The March of Dimes can do much more if you'll loosen up when the TAP hits you. Dig us?

If I am concerned or disturbed about something, I say these words of Jesus' over to myself. I say them and listen to them. I think of the living, loving Christ speaking them to me, speaking them through me.

When I pick up the newspaper and read disquieting, fearful things about world situations, I let these words of Jesus' take away all fear. The peace of Jesus Christ is here now, in my mind and heart and in the minds, and hearts of people all over the world.

The Spirit of justice, the Spirit of truth, the Spirit of freedom, the Spirit of unity is abroad. The peace of Christ is present with us. His power is working now to remake the earth.

"Let not your heart be troubled: believe in God, believe also in me."

I do not give way to doubt, anxiety, and fear when I do not readily see the evidence of divine justice at work in my affairs. I maintain my faith in God's law of love and justice. I hold to the truth that another person cannot harm me, cannot be unjust toward me, that nothing can deprive me of that which is rightfully mine in Spirit and in Truth.

My thought is continually on the omnipotent justice of God rather than on man's injustice. My reliance is continually on God's love and law of divine balance and order rather than on man's sense of fair play.

My justice comes from God. There is nothing to fear, for God's law of love and divine justice is constantly at work in my life and affairs to secure my good.

The prayers I have said, the experiences I have had, have given me understanding; they have given me strength; they have increased my faith. So now, filled with understanding, with strength, with faith, I go forward to express more and more of the divine in me, to experience more and more of the blessings that God has for me. I am free; I am happy; I am blessed.

Prosperity means many things to many people. To some, prosperity at this moment means employment, to others a home, to others an increase in salary, to others more money in the bank. All these things are prosperity, of course, but prosperity is more than the outer things. Prosperity is the inner, underlying substance of God that permeates and penetrates all, the substance out of which all things are formed.

Things are but evidence of the all-providing substance of God. Things come and go; they fluctuate; they change — but the substance of God is enduring, unchanging; it can be depended on at all times, in all circumstances. Rather than put our faith in the things that Jesus said rust and are worn away, let us know where our

IN THIS NEW YEAR I AM A NEW CREATURE IN CHRIST

Do you have a habit of looking back to past sorrows and unhappiness? Do you feel burdened about some past condition in your life? Now in this new year resolve to loose all that has saddened and burdened you, and let it go. Let old burdens, grief, discouragement, and disappointment be as "waters that are passed away."

Resolve that into this new year you will not carry a single burden of the past. Resolve that in this new year you will give all your thought and attention to living fully, freely, and gladly in this present moment.

In this new year you are ready for a new life in Christ. You are ready for new strength, new power, new joys, new conditions, and new happiness.

In this new year, you are unburdened, unfettered, and unbound. In this new year, you are a new creature in Christ.

God is the God of love and justice. When we fail to remember this and react with bitterness and resentment to conditions we consider unjust, nothing constructive is accomplished. However, when we react with thoughts and feelings of love and faith in the goodness of the side of justice. We place our life and affairs wholly under God's jurisdiction. Let us put aside all thought and feeling of retaliation, all thought and feeling of worry or concern. Let us keep ourselves poised and centered in God.

God is the God of love and justice. Let us hold to this Truth. Let us know that God's power to establish justice exceeds the power of any person to be unjust. Let us know that love and justice are now actively at work to produce good.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Editor: The Cultural Training Center of 137 South Orange avenue held their annual party last Friday at which time our program of "SOMEBODY CARES" was much in evidence.

Through the columns of your newspaper and our many friends we are happy to announce that at Christmas time help was given many children including seventy families who received joyful baskets filled with food.

The officers and members wish to take this time to thank you the Editor of the New Jersey Herald News and our many friends who contributed to our most worthy cause.

Toys as well as money was given out to the unfortunate which gave them a brighter Holiday.

Yours truly, Mrs. Catherine Rucker, Corr. Sec'y.; Mrs. M. A. Daniels, President.

say to you, "You can't," you have the right and the power to answer, "I can!"

The only reason we are afraid is that we are not aware of, or do not trust, the power and the presence of God with us. We think we have to do everything by ourselves. We think we have only our limited strength and knowledge to draw on. We fear our own inadequacy, our own limitations. These fears are overcome as we rely more on the Spirit in us, as we learn to say as Paul did: "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me."

Expansion of the Essex County Vocational School system has been recommended by Essex County Grand Jurors Association and the Business and Industrial Coordinating Council, a business-civil rights group now operating under the Manpower Development Training Act.

Both BICC and the association proposed expansion of skilled training by the vocational schools after studying the system's facilities and programs. Their findings deplored the lack of facilities to meet demands for education and job training in skilled employment.

STATISTICS CITED

The association added that the success of the vocational school in placing its graduates is supported by figures of the graduating class of 1964. Of 480 graduates, only one was unemployed when the association's report was prepared and 90 per cent had been placed in the trade for which he was trained.

But the vocational and training schools "do need increased attention and support of the public," the association declared. Citing the lack of facilities to meet demands on the system, the association added:

"In the suburban area of the county, there are a number of students who could profit by the department's instruction, but because of excessive time to travel and the lack of convenient and travel accommodations, they cannot attend the schools.

"With the crowding of each of the four schools which presently are filled beyond their original capacity and the fact that during the last several years the schools have had to turn prospective students away because of the lack of space, consideration of a new school seems imperative in Essex County if we are to meet the needs of our youth and the future."

BICC Praise

BICC, which has its own on-the-job manpower training program, had been considered "lukewarm" in its appraisal of the school's system. However, in a letter to Dr. George Morgenroth, director of Essex County Vocational Schools, the BICC declared:

"Each of us has a much greater appreciation of the fine training work you are doing, both with high school students and adults. When you issue a certificate of completion or a high school diploma, your trainees certainly should have no trouble finding desirable employment."

The council concluded: "It would seem reasonable to us that anyone considering an MD-TA skilled training program of any sort to investigate the advisability of expanding the programs at the Essex County Vocational Schools System where know-how and administration are already available, rather than setting-up an MD-TA program without these advantages."

Last August, during a conference with President Johnson, Executive Director Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People made the observation that only nine Negroes were among the 4,000 midshipmen at the Naval Academy. As a result, President Johnson ordered a probe to determine why so few Negroes were enrolled in the service school.

A Pentagon spokesman confirmed Mr. Wilkins' observation as well as the fact that there were only 29 Negroes among the 2,520 cadets at West Point and 14 out of 2,512 airmen at the Air Force Academy.

In his announcement, Mr. McNamara said all young men of high scholastic achievement, leadership potential, good character and good physical condition are being urged to seek admission to the service academies.

He said students desiring to enter an academy upon graduation from high school should apply late in the spring of their junior year and graduating seniors who have not previously applied should do so early in the fall of their senior year.

Each applicant, he said, should write to his Congressman or Senator if a Congressional nomination is sought or to the Registrar or Dean of Admissions at the academy. Addresses of the academies are: The United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland 21402.

NAACP Asks Massive Aid For N. J. Immigrants

WENONAH, N.J. — The NAACP has called on the New Jersey legislature to take substantial steps to ease the plight of the thousands of migrant and farm workers in the state.

In letters to each legislator last month, Mrs. Irene H. Smith, president of the New Jersey NAACP State Conference, stated that "while the State's Migrant Opportunity Program, part of the Governor's War on Poverty, has brought additional hope to this group, far more needs to be done."

Most of these workers are Negroes or Puerto Ricans, the NAACP urged that the various departments in the state which administer to the needs of this group "not tolerate any subtle forms of discrimination."

The NAACP further urged a strengthening of the State Migrant Labor Law. "The powers of its Board have been allowed to erode in the last 20 years and its protections do not extend to seasonal farm workers who live here year 'round," Mrs. Smith stated.

This Week's News Report N. A. A. C. P.

WASHINGTON — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed 28 complaints with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on Dec. 28 charging several industries and unions with discriminatory employment practices.

Included in the complaints was one against The New York Times and Prentice-Hall International, Inc., charging that the newspaper had carried a Prentice-Hall advertisement for a position for which a Negro was not accepted. The position was that of sales representative in South Africa. This is the first time the NAACP has protested bias in job advertising at the Federal level.

The complaint cited a section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act forbidding publication of "any notice indicating any preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on race."

Complaints were filed by Herbert Hill, NAACP labor director, against Republic Steel Corp., Canton, Ohio, on behalf of seven workers, and also against P. Lorillard & Co. and Local 317, of the Tobacco Workers International Union, Greensboro, N. C., on behalf of eight employees.

Workers at Republic Steel charged that the company had established a pattern of discrimination against Negroes. Charges against P. Lorillard & Co. and the union there included the complaint that Negro employees were limited to menial jobs.

A complaint was also filed against Naves International Corp., of Birmingham, Ala., charging that a Negro employee there was threatened with discharge because of his voter registration activities.

Complaints were also filed against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Houston, Tex., Harley-Davidson Motor Co., Milwaukee, Wisc.; M.G.M. Records, Inc., New York; the Long Beach, Calif., Street Maintenance Dept.; Westinghouse Electric Corp., Hampton, S. C.; Alabama Dry Dock Shipbuilding Co., Mobile, Ala.; Carolina Foundry Machine Workers, Spartanburg, S. C.; Southern National Bank, Fayetteville, N. C.; and Waccamaw Bank & Trust Co., Charlotte, N. C.

NAACP Director
Gains Government Post
DALLAS, Tex. — NAACP Southwest Regional Director Clarence Laws resigned from the Association this week to accept a position with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mr. Laws joined the NAACP staff in 1955 as Louisiana field secretary. In 1961 he was appointed southwest regional secretary.

During his tenure with the Association, Mr. Laws played a crucial role in the NAACP struggle against injunctions in Louisiana and Texas aimed at crippling the Association's activities in those states. He was also active in the famed Little Rock School desegregation case in 1957.

In a letter to Mr. Laws, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive director, congratulated him for his "great devotion as well as great tact and skill and fighting ability."

In his new position, Mr. Wilkins said, "you will be able to continue your stellar work for equality and opportunity, this time as an agent of the government which, finally, has openly declared itself as to this policy."

Ministers Support
NAACP Registration

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — In a formal statement made public here the Birmingham Baptist Ministers Conference has endorsed the NAACP voter registration campaign in Jefferson County and throughout the State of Alabama.

The Conference praised the NAACP campaign under the leadership of W. C. Patton, NAACP field director, as both "outstanding and productive," and urged community support of the campaign.

"Since return of the NAACP to Alabama and the formulating of a specialized and organized voter registration stimulation campaign, the number of Negro voters has dramatically increased, the interest in voting fired up and the involvement of civic and community leadership broadened and deepened," the statement noted.

The statement also commended Mrs. Bernice C. Johnson, coordinator of voter registration activities in Jefferson County, for "her fine and valuable contributions."

NAACP "Poll Tax Sunday"

To Be Held On January 9
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — As part of its poll tax campaign currently being conducted in Alabama, Mississippi and Texas, the NAACP has organized a "Poll Tax Sunday" to be held in the three states on January 9.

Pastors in these states, which still require a poll tax for state and local elections, have been urged to emphasize the need to pay the tax to their congregations. In addition, the NAACP is sending speakers to many of the churches.

Hundreds of workers have been recruited in Texas and Alabama to work on the campaign. In Texas, the NAACP has established ten centers throughout the state with salaried coordinators in each center.

During the week of January 9, Twilight Poll Tax marches will be held throughout Texas.

NAACP Urges Extension

Of 1962 Housing Order
ST. LOUIS — The NAACP has called on President Johnson to extend the 1962 Executive Order banning discrimination in federally-assisted housing to cover all banks, savings and loan associations that are insured or supervised by the Federal government.

Soldier Loses Eye
Following Arrest

PHILADELPHIA — The local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has launched an investigation into a fight between a Philadelphia policeman and a discharged Baltimore, Md., soldier that resulted in the Negro soldier losing an eye.

The Department of Defense is also looking into the matter as a result of a protest lodged with President Johnson by the Baltimore NAACP Branch.

The scuffle occurred, according to police reports, Saturday night, December 18, at the Trailways Bus Terminal here when Patrolman Richard Farina was called into the terminal by security guard Thomas McLaughlin when a dispute developed between a bus driver and two soldiers.

Allegedly one of the soldiers, Wallace Beauford, 23, of Baltimore, was hit and knocked more, snatched the policeman's gun down with a blow across the face. The officer got up, the report said, drew his service revolver and held Beauford and his companion, Owen Williams, 19, of Fort Dix, N. J., at bay until other policemen arrived.

Beauford, the report said, resisted attempts to disarm him and eventually was subdued and placed under arrest on charges of aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery, and disorderly conduct.

Beauford lost his right eye during surgery at Philadelphia General Hospital, where he was admitted. The officer suffered a broken nose, the report said.

The dispute which seemingly touched off the fracas was over a Trailways bus driver tearing off too much of a sticker, rendering it invalid for a transfer.

The two soldiers were returning from a hitch in Germany.

Branch President Resigns

DARBY, Pa. — In line with the non-partisan posture of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, his position as president of the William C. Moore has resigned local NAACP branch to fill the post of Darby Commissioner, an office to which he was elected during the November election.

Mr. Moore, who has headed the Darby NAACP for the past three years, will continue his affiliation with the branch as a member of its executive committee, however. Also, he will remain a member of the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania State Conference of NAACP Branches.

Mrs. Ethel Smiley, vice president of the branch was elevated to the presidency by the executive committee to fill Mr. Moore's unexpired term which ends December, 1966.

NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins, in a memorandum dated December 2, 1965, reminded presidents of NAACP branches of their obligation to resign from their positions upon assumption of elective public office.

"To hold public office and the presidency of an NAACP branch at the same time compromises the non-partisan policy of the Association," Mr. Wilkins declared. "A branch president is the official spokesman of the local branch. As an elected official, he is committed to the program and policy of the political party to which he has been elected. He is therefore no longer a NAACP leader."

Units Seeks

Memberships, Money And Voters

COLUMBIA, S. C. — The Southeast Regional Advisory Board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, meeting here recently, has called on units in its jurisdiction to initiate a two-prong plan of action aimed at strengthening the organization and at enhancing the political power of the Negro community.

To reinforce the NAACP's base of operation in the region, the policy-making body called for "a vigorous membership and fund raising campaign" with goals of at least 140,000 adult and youth members and $75,000 in Freedom Fund contributions.

To secure a maximum turnout of Negro voters at election time, the regional NAACP group endorsed a political action program "to increase voter registration to its fullest potential," and "to promote citizenship education for intelligent and honest voting."

The Advisory Board is co-presidents of Alabama, Florida, youth leaders, and staff in the periphery and branch presidents, olina, South Carolina and Tennessee, Mississippi, North Carolina.

Spingarn

for some time that many Negroes wanted a Negro as president of the 55-year-old civil rights organization.

Re-Elected Last Year

Only last year Mr. Spingarn said in an interview that there was a "considerable movement" to have a nonwhite as leader of the NAACP. He expressed doubt then that he would be re-elected. However, he was.

Representative Adam Clayton Powell Jr. and others have said that the presidency of the NAACP should be held by a Negro, although whites should be allowed to hold other offices.

The board of directors is scheduled to meet today after the organization's annual meeting at 20 West 40th Street. The president is elected by the board.

After his announcement, Mr. Spingarn shook hands with the dinner guests, many of whom asked for his autograph, and then relaxed for a few minutes in a soft green chair while waiting for a car to take him home.

Vast Growth Cited

He could not point to any one thing as his most memorable achievement, he said, but he was proud of the growth of the NAACP into an organization with 1,000 branches that, together with its legal defense fund, spends $3-million a year.

Mr. Spingarn, a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family in New York, recalled that he had picketed for Negro rights in Memphis, Tenn., in 1914, and "only one Negro would join me."

"Because of the work all of us have done since then," he added, "ten thousand Negroes would have the courage to picket for their rights today."

The greatest challenge to Negroes now, Mr. Spingarn said, is to register and to vote.

With a shake of his head, Mr. Spingarn dismissed those who would adopt a more militant stance in civil rights activities.

"To some we're too revolutionary and to others we're too conservative, but we've just been realistic," he said.

"Others are taking credit today for the things we set the foundation for, and they don't say anything about how the NAACP has helped out the other rights groups, like CORE and SNCC with $400,000 in hand money."

And then he added to an associate, "I hope we get back the $500,000 they haven't paid back."

Farmer In Farewell Statement To 'Core'

NEW YORK — James Farmer, National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), issued the following statement regarding his resignation.

Gentlemen, he addressed the official family of CORE in New York and throughout the nation:

I cannot say it any other way. I was there twenty-three years ago when CORE began and although I am resigning as its National Director . . . I will never sever my commitments to its trust—its principles. We are all in the middle of this terrible storm, this continuing tragedy of racial hatred, and poverty and pain . . . there is no ending in sight . . . and I have quite simply chosen to seek that ending from another place. A place in which I can help the nation fashion new weapons and bring the weight of creative militancy and the weight of conviction to bear upon the whole life span of the American poor.

CORE has new leaders now . . . they have honored my decision . . . Let there be no mistake . . . there will be no pause, or halt, or time for breath. The content of CORE's protest will not change—militancy, demonstrations, the whole arsenal of non-violence will be refreshed . . . amplified. And it will come increasingly from the heart of the ghetto . . . where the simple task of living is every year more terrible. CORE will continue to be sword's point of this historic struggle.

During last weekend, a news story leak indicated that I would resign as National Director of CORE, effective next March. That has been confirmed.

The news of my departure has been, either intentionally or otherwise, misinterpreted. I have expended my entire life in the struggle for human dignity, especially as that struggle concerns the American Negro. Neither my commitment to that struggle or my active involvement in it will be affected by my change in job.

The task of the Center for Community Action-Education is an extension of, not a diversion from, the struggle that sustains me. Those of us involved in the civil rights movement are not surprised by rumors that the movement is faltering. Indeed, we recognize such rumors as another manifestation of an extremely sad fact of American life: There are those who would rather see a problem vanish than deal with it. But race-hatred is the open wound of our nation, and the civil rights movement remains its most important surgeon. CORE will always be.

Unfortunately, there are some who equate CORE's entire program and purpose with demonstrations and direct action. If we aren't in the streets, they conclude that CORE is dead. It seems that those people become most uncomfortable when their creation, the "invisible man," momentarily moves from their vision. Those who hold such a view are, perhaps unwittingly, engaging in a particularly vicious form of racism. For to conclude that the Negro is incapable of adapting his press for freedom to new circumstances is to conclude that the Negro is essentially different from other humans. That has been a characteristic of racism and it will always be so.

Any struggle against longstanding resistance initially aims at a single point, often using a single weapon. That principle of economy of force applies to all struggles. But as the tide begins to turn in favor of the attacker, broader areas are brought under fire by more sophisticated weaponry.

CORE and I began in this struggle as activists. The commitment to direct action has served us well in the past and we will use it with great care in the future. We are not a revolutionary organization, but we are a people's organization.

The political power of Negro Americans is one of our major and long-term goals; CORE will use the methods of its choosing to realize that objective. The black ghetto is awakening, and CORE, in city after city, is organizing for action in that community. Economic power, gained through full-participation in a skill-oriented job market is equally important goal; CORE will address itself to that question, again using the weapons it deems practical. But while the ghetto-trapped and brutalized Negro of the North is fighting to make his place in a complex urban setting, his brothers and sisters in the rural South continue to suffer economic oppression.

Agricultural workers, now largely Negro, are second-class citizens; denied their country's protection of collective bargaining and minimum wage laws. CORE's concern is presently demonstrated by our involvement supporting striking vineyard workers against Schenley and other growers in California.

The vitality of CORE has never been one single individual; it has been the dedication of thousands of Americans, black and white, who accept the fact that their action can improve their country. More than a month ago, our National Action Council began the search for my successor. That process continues with my active participation. Announcement of the selection of a new National Director will be made in the near future, long before my departure next March.

Newark Begins 300th Year Anniversary

NEWARK — Newark's 300th Anniversary year which began New Year's day received a congratulatory message from Johnson. The announcement was made by Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio.

In a letter to Mayor Addonizio, President Johnson said: "Inspired by history's accomplishments and armed with renewed hope and desire to carry on you cross the threshold to your fourth century. May it be a happy and prosperous one."

The President's letter referred to the purchase of the Newark area by a group of Puritans from Milford, Conn., led by Capt. Robert Treat, from the Hackensack Indians. Little did the Puritans know that Newark "was to achieve the stature it enjoys today," Mr. Johnson wrote.

Governor Hughes said the state would "develop a new mechanism," the Department of Community Affairs, to help Newark and other urban communities "meet the numerous challenges of modern society."

He described Newark as a "shining example" of cooperation by government, business, labor and civic organizations to achieve physical and social transformation.

Newark, with a population of more than 400,000, half of it Negro, has an extensive urban renewal program. Its antispoverty programs have made controversy between the City Council and the antispoverty agency.

Mayor Addonizio called on the entire population, regardless of economic, racial, religious and other differences, to unite in the celebration.

He pledged to promote the establishment of new cultural institutions and activities for Newark and its vicinity, although he declined to specify them. However, Newark already has a civic and cultural center, the Newark Museum, the Newark Symphony Orchestra, and the city purchased and
